TD Charitable Foundation Empowers Financial Literacy with $25,000 Grant to ACBGC

The TD Charitable Foundation has awarded a $25,000 grant to underwrite Money Matters: Make It Count at the Boys & Girls Club of Atlantic City. The program is dedicated to teaching vital financial skills to teenagers aged 13-18, empowering them to make informed decisions about money management.

Charles A. Wallace II, CEO of the Boys & Girls Club of Atlantic City, expressed gratitude for the foundation's contribution, stating, "The financial decisions that young people make today will shape their futures. With the support of TD Charitable Foundation, our club can continue to provide valuable mentorship and resources to equip youth with the tools they need for financial success."

Money Matters: Make It Count has been a cornerstone program at ACBGC for nearly two decades, guiding teens through goal setting, budgeting, saving, and investing. In addition to informative sessions led by staff, participants engage with interactive digital tools and games designed to reinforce financial literacy concepts. The program's effectiveness is evidenced by the improved financial management skills demonstrated by its graduates, including enhanced saving habits and budget adherence.

"TD is committed to supporting initiatives that enhance financial literacy and empower individuals to build brighter and more secure financial futures," said Rob Curley, Regional President, Metro Pennsylvania/New Jersey, TD Bank. "We are proud to support the Boys & Girls Club of Atlantic City and their contributions to the development of vital life skills among the youth in our communities."
